Cultural Humility and Responsiveness in Behavioral Health Care

Videoconference via Zoom

August 19th, 10:00am-12:00pm (Eastern Time)

Description

Practitioners who are culturally responsive are in the best position to provide quality care for racial and ethnic populations. This interactive virtual training will review cultural humility as a practical strategy to help providers to identify and diffuse personal bias, and increase person-centered care through core communication skills, and increase the potential to deliver culturally informed care for racial and ethnic populations. Providers will explore how cultural humility can also help support staff supervision.

Trainer

Diana Padilla is a Research Project Manager at New York State Psychiatric Institute, Columbia University Medical Center. She is a senior staff trainer for the Northeast & Caribbean Addiction Transfer Technology Center Network (NeC-ATTC) and provides training and technical assistance on implementation of Screening, Brief Intervention, and Referral to Treatment (SBIRT), and Equity & Inclusion capacity building opportunities.

Credits

This training meets the requirements for two renewal hours (CASAC, CPP, CPS) and two initial hours (CPP, CPS) through New York State's Office of Addiction Services and Supports (NYS OASAS). As an IC & RC member board, OASAS accredited courses are granted reciprocal approval by the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, Alcohol and Drug Counselor Committee. Many other states offer reciprocity - please check with your accrediting agency.

Participants are required to attend the session in its entirety, turn on their video cameras, and actively participate in order to receive credit.
