The use of affirming language inspires hope.

LANGUAGE MATTERS.

Words have power.

PEOPLE FIRST.

The PTTC Network uses affirming language to promote the application of evidence-based and culturally informed practices.

Acknowledgements

This presentation is based on two primary studies:

- The first is a study conducted on Program Sustainability in 2002 by Knowlton Johnson, Ph.D., Carol Hays, Ph.D., Hayden Center, Ph.D., and Charlotte Carlton, MA
- The second is an updated version of the 2002 study applied to the issue of Coalition Sustainability conducted in 2023 by Hayden Center, Ph.D. and Charlotte Carlton, MA.
- The 2023 adaptation was conducted through the support of the Wyoming Department of Health in collaboration with Wyoming community prevention coalitions.

Road Map

- Sustainability defined within an effective prevention coalition
- Overview of a coalition structure
- Community Support through:
 - Positive Relationships
 - System Leaders and Champions
 - Ownership
- Common challenges for coalitions and potential solutions

Coalition Sustainability

Sustainability in the context of coalition work

- Sustainability is the process of ensuring an adaptive prevention system and sustainable innovation that can be integrated into ongoing operations to benefit diverse populations.
- Ultimately, sustainability is about maintaining positive outcomes in communities.

Common Elements of Effective Coalitions

In this case, coalition work:

- Occurs at the community level.
- Assumes that prevention occurs within a system that includes involved community members organized within a collaborative structure.
- Focuses on desired outcomes.
- Builds adequate capacities among partners.

The Coalition Structure

- Coalitions work. We know that from decades of using them as a prevention delivery system. In addition to the usual structural concerns of a Chair, Coordinator, Members, Sub-Committees, Partners, etc., we must also address a coalition's functional structures and priorities to promote effectiveness.
- An effective coalition:
 - Must be developed in a manner that increases effectiveness.
 - Must be part of the community served by the coalition.
 - Must keep all community partners focused.
 - Must plan for sustainability at every step.

Common Challenges for Coalitions

- Time
- Capacity
- Being understaffed
- Maintaining focus in an ever-changing environment
- Sustaining outcomes and keeping momentum
- Reconnecting with community members (post-pandemic)
- Member to member communication
- Identifying collective work
- Coalition fatigue
- Virtual engagement

Community Support:
Develop and Nurture Positive
Relationships

Cultivating Community Support

Coalition members must methodically assume collective responsibility through:

- Positive Relationships
- System Leaders and Champions
- Ownership

Using the SPF Model to Develop and Nurture Positive Relationships

- The coalition facilitates the identification of a community's problems associated with or the result of substance use.
- Coalitions work through an informed, objective process to determine the most effective direction, strategy, and allocation of resources to achieve identified substance use reduction outcomes.

Role of the Community

- Community agencies and organizations, working through the coalition, must cultivate broader community support in order to sustain outcomes as they are achieved and reduce substance use and related community problems.
- Broader support includes influential community members specific to the demographics of the community and beyond the traditional 12 sectors.
- Community members must see themselves as stewards of the community's health and well-being whose success depends on their collective effectiveness.

Cultivating System Leaders and Champions

- The coalition must cultivate champions for prevention strategies, such as policy change and enforcement, which can influence population level changes in substance use behaviors and consequences.
- Build awareness of the importance of prevention in meeting short-term outcomes and its contribution to an overall comprehensive strategy.

Northeast & Caribbean (HHS Region 2)

Infusing a sense of Ownership

- Facilitate active involvement of community members in all phases of the SPF model.
- Seek advice, feedback, and assistance from peers, program developers, and others who have created and sustained successful coalitions that demonstrate changes in policies and reduction in problems related to substance use.

Assess Relationships Among Key Partners

Consider the key community partners critical to achieving, demonstrating, and sustaining the strategy's positive outcomes.

- Are key community partners supportive of the goals and efforts of the coalition?
- Are any of these relationships creating a barrier to achieving, demonstrating, or sustaining the strategy's positive outcomes?

Turn Community Members into System Leaders and Champions

Qualities of Effective Prevention Leaders

- Prevention leaders must view themselves as stewards of not only the prevention system and its strategies, but its outcomes.
- The coalition must view itself as a prevention leader, advocating for policies and actions throughout the community that support long-term strategic outcomes of reductions in community problems related to substance use.

How do we cultivate prevention system champions?

- Identify the needs of influential community members or organizations that are implementing effective strategies and in the broader community.
- Communicate to targeted influential community members how sustaining outcomes of effective strategies can meet their needs.

Assess Leaders and Champions

- Does the community coalition champion policies and actions throughout the community that support long-term strategic outcomes of reductions in community problems related to substance use?
- Are key leaders in the community aware of how sustaining effective prevention outcomes benefits them?

Question

Who are your
Leaders and Champions?

Encourage Ownership of the Prevention System

How do we encourage ownership?

- Identify and target influential community members (individuals and groups) whose ownership of the prevention system is critical to its sustainability.
- Communicate regularly with community members through a variety of means (meetings, newsletters, presentations, newspaper articles, etc.) that celebrate key success stories and connect positive outcomes of the prevention system to identified needs of the community.
- Involve key decision-makers in the implementation process.

Assess Prevention System Ownership

Consider how key partners and the broader community value prevention.

- Is the broader community aware of the community coalition and its goals to reduce problems that are related to substance use?
- Are key partners supportive of using data to inform decisions?
- Are community members aware of or involved with strategies to achieve and sustain positive outcomes of strategies?

Questions

How are you currently nurturing your coalition?

What new steps can you take now to promote your coalition?

Tips for Engagement

Tips for Recruiting Coalition Members

- Find common/shared interests and goals. Volunteer for other causes and meet like-minded, goal-oriented people.
- Identify needed members and ask for assistance from current members.
- Attend other organizations' events and meetings and promote two-way relationships.
- Encourage current coalition members to participate in Community events and promote the coalition.
- Invite missing stakeholders to coalition events.
- Host regular coalition meetings with actionable projects.
- Provide informative communications.
- Advertise, when appropriate.

Tips for Educating and Keeping Members Informed

- Schedule routine meetings, with virtual option if appropriate.
- Introduce prevention science at every other meeting and/or 15 minutes of "education" at every meeting.
- Communicate regularly and through varied communication channels
- Provide regular and varied communication.
- Maintain positive rapport with community entities.
- Offer trainings.

Tips for Keeping Members Engaged

- Highlight members in the newsletter.
- Engage members according to their passion.
- Convene subcommittees regularly, big group less often.
- Include lived experience and youth involvement among the coalition membership.
- Go to their turf for coalition nights and their events.
- Maintain focus on forward momentum.
- Provide food when appropriate.
- Give every member an opportunity to contribute collaboratively.
- Keep talking about the mission.

Tips for Empowering Coalition Members to “do the work” Collectively

- Delegate.
- Utilize a Project Tracker w/assigned people and due dates.
- Tie tasks to members’ everyday work.
- Consolidate work so it doesn't add too much to any member’s plate.
- Don't duplicate meetings/groups.
- Encourage ownership and support their efforts.
- Be truly interested in members’ opinions, knowledge, skills, and interests.
- Leadership can set limits and let members know them.
