'Wiped Out and Still Going,' Preventing Compassion Fatigue (Webinar)

Thursday, August 20th

11:00AM - 12:30PM (Eastern Time)

Course Description: Despite the demands of a profession in the health and behavioral health care disciplines, providers are dedicated to their craft and enjoy a deep satisfaction from helping others. But with the job are pressures and at times unanticipated factors that can increase susceptibility to exhaustion leading to compassion fatigue and other occupational hazards. The adverse effects of compassion fatigue can decrease the provider's emotional and physical well-being, influence the quality of care they provide for their clients, profoundly affecting service delivery and person centered care with communities served.
