Wow, I have to say though I got drug education in the late 80s, it was straight out of the 60s!

10:12:27 From JANET WHITFIELD-HYDUK to Everyone:

I started in 1991

10:12:43 From Sheila Quinones to Everyone:

It makes sense, though, that we would receive in the 80s what our teachers got in the 60s.

this is yopur brain, this is your brain on drugs. any questions lol

10:16:11 From Rolland Martinson to Everyone:

"Evidence-based" and "data-driven" feel like meaningless buzzwords in this field. Scare tactics and environmental strategies; i.e. prohibition and law enforcement, seem to be the primary strategies of most prevention programs and coalitions.

10:16:25 From WILLIAM SPITZER to Everyone:

Mock Crashes

10:16:32 From Heidi Hogg to Everyone:

Could we get a definition of what "evidence-based" is? For example, is a program that incorporates CBT "evidence-based" or is it "evidence-informed" or "research-based"?

10:17:08 From Ann Schensky to Everyone:

Heidi, this is a good question, please put it in the Q&A section and the speakers will address it. Thanks

10:48:05 From Anne Rogers to Everyone:

@Erin, great explanation on Myth Busting

10:48:06 From Jessica Muhlenkamp to Everyone:

That's so interesting because I think there are a lot of "evidence based" programs that have myth busting componets

10:48:16 From Heidi Hogg to Everyone:

Is that base knowledge sometimes a necessary first step to get to the prevention messaging though?

10:48:45 From Jennifer Dempsey to Everyone:

I was thinking the same thing, Jessica. A lot of our programs have True or False activities. I wonder if that counts?

10:49:03 From Sara Jesse to Everyone:

I read some research that said audiences often misremember the myth as truth, and then attribute this misinfo to your group!

10:49:38 From Constance Samuels to Everyone:

Building a honest rapport between partners. If you notice a symptom speak up and encourage your partner to get tested.

10:52:05 From Elizabeth Ray to Everyone:

10:55:09 From Jennifer Dempsey to Everyone:

DARE and assemblies

10:55:15 From lwhelan to Everyone:

assemblies-organizations feel that if someone presents on their own personal experiences "I did drugs and here is why" then it will reduce the likely hood that others will.

10:55:23 From Lori Andrew to Everyone:

You can't save everyone mentality

10:55:39 From Heidi Hogg to Everyone:

It's actually really hard to get localized data, which is what would resonate with local change makers. National data is often not impactful.

10:55:41 From Brenda Bradley to Everyone:

Googles, RRW, one-time events.

10:55:41 From Sara Jesse to Everyone:

A lot of these 1 and done activities are easy/cheap/time effective; they require no long-term commitment to effective prevention.

10:55:46 From Rob Levy to Everyone:

"It was researched there, but we don't think it'll work here."

10:55:48 From Deidra Cloud to Everyone:

I understand the developmental issues with youth, but do one time educational events (conferences, town halls, etc.) and "scary" facts work with adults?

10:56:41 From Laura Wathen to Everyone:

For schools, I feel sometimes it an easy way for them to check the box for providing some sort of prevention

10:56:51 From Melissa Moore to Everyone:

Next time I'm going to wear that on a t shirt

10:57:06 From WILLIAM SPITZER to Everyone:

10:57:53 From Heidi Hogg to Everyone:

Who pays to research localized data?

10:58:04 From Melissa Moore to Everyone:

Very good presentation. Thank you, James Wagley, SPA Coalition Coordinator

11:27:27 From Idabelle Sisk to Everyone:

I am new to Prevention. I learned the difference between ineffective and effective programs. Thank you

11:27:31 From Stephanie Simeon, MPH, CHES to Everyone:

Can we do office hours even if we are not in great lakes area?

11:27:36 From Sara Applebee to Everyone:

This was excellent, thank you! I would love to hear more from people in the field who have been able to move from ineffective strategies to those that work

11:27:37 From JENNIFER M WINSLOW to Everyone:

Both Kris and Erin will be holding "Office Hours" this Thursday, March 3 from 12:30-2pm CT. You will receive an email with a link to these office hours after the presentation.
